

Steel Leaders Call Meeting

Lukens Steel Starts New Wage Talks

Pittsburgh, June 3—(AP)—A possible crack in the steel strike deadlock popped up tonight as steel leaders gathered for a meeting that many sources expect will lead to new contract talks.

The strike of 650,000 steelworkers cut heavily into the nation's industrial might. Thousands of railroads and coal miners were laid off. Steel production dwindled for below defense needs.

Sen. Maybank (D-SC), a member of the Senate banking committee, said in Washington he plans to offer immediately emergency legislation bearing on the strike.

Maybank, declining to discuss details, said his legislative proposal will be offered as an amendment to the Defense Production act.

Congressional sentiment is reported for some type of legislation giving President Truman power to seize private industry in an emergency. But proponents of this legislation would reserve to Congress the right to veto such seizure.

The first break in the stalemate over negotiations came from Coatesville, Pa. the Lukens Steel Co. said it will sit down with the union tomorrow for contract talks involving its 4,500 employees.

Executives of leading steel companies will meet tomorrow in New York to discuss strategy (9 a.m. Eastern Standard Time).

A source close to Philip Murray, president of the CIO United Steelworkers, said the meeting may lead to a call for a bargaining conference between management and labor.

Union Receptive
This source said the union has no plans now for such a conference but indicated it would be receptive to any such invitation.

Neither management nor union made any public move to renew bargaining for a new contract in the second steel walkout of 1952.

Murray could not be reached. He has been unreachable since he announced the strike call yesterday, within minutes after the Supreme Court ordered the government to turn back the mills to private ownership.

Murray in ordering the strike called on industry to participate in new contract negotiations.

Vice President John A. Stephens of U.S. Steel Corp., coordinator in the steel row for all involved companies, said:

"We believe the steel dispute can be settled if both parties are willing to engage in free and genuine collective bargaining."

Paralysis Spreads
Twenty-four hours after the start of the strike, some 26,000 coal miners and more than 10,000 railroad workers already were laid off. The paralysis that gripped basic steel is certain to spread still deeper within hours.

The Pennsylvania railroad, the nation's largest, was first to announce a curfew to meet the steel crisis. The road said it is going to lay off 9,000 workers starting Thursday because of "a severe loss of business due to the strike."

Some 26,000 men who mine coal to keep the giant steel furnaces going were furloughed.

Ten thousand iron ore miners near Hibbing, Minn., joined the walkout in sympathy.

ILLINOIS NAVAL MAN DROWNS
New York, June 3—(AP)—The Navy said today a destroyer fireman from Illinois was swept overboard by heavy seas and drowned Sunday 300 miles northwest of Bermuda.

He was identified as Eugene Bradman Ward, (age not available) a boiler technician fireman, whose father, Homer E. Ward, lives in Rushville, Illinois.

The Navy said Ward was washed off the destroyer Caperton just before 9 p.m., and that life rings and lights were dropped, but Ward was never sighted again.

Taft's Lead Widens In South Dakota

BULLETIN
By the Associated Press
SD. president (Republican) 1,627 of 1,946 precincts; Eisenhower 55-672; Taft 58,195.

Sioux Falls, S.D., June 3—(AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft widened tonight a lead over Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in a strong outpouring of South Dakota GOP presidential primary votes.

With 14 Republican convention delegates and a large slice of prestige at stake on the outcome, the lead from 1,589 of the state's 1,946 precincts was:

Taft 58,195
Eisenhower 53,773

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee won the state's eight Democratic presidential convention votes in a walkaway. His delegate candidates defeated an unopposed slate by a two to one margin.

Ed Downs, head of the rival slate, conceded to Kefauver early in the counting.

With a near Record smashing total of about 120,000 Republican ballots in sight, Taft was holding his lead by virtue of his strength in the farm areas. The previous high GOP presidential primary total was 128,000 in 1932.

With more than two-thirds of the returns counted, Taft was polling 51.6 per cent of the vote in the last hour on ballot box clash with his chief rival before the Chicago nominating convention.

With Eisenhower back in civilian clothes and preparing for first personal entry into the political ring at an Abilene, Kan., homecoming tomorrow, the final results of South Dakota's Republican balloting were looked upon as critical.

Taft threw every available resource into the primary fight here, where the 14 nominating votes are little more than a by-product of the prestige accruing to the winner.

Taft backers sought a victory which they could advertise as exploding the theory that Eisenhower is more popular with the voters than their candidate.

A victory also would reinforce their claim that the Ohio Senator is top GOP choice in the election-winning Middle West.

If they pocketed South Dakota, the Taft supporters felt they not only would offset Eisenhower's homecoming fanfare but would crimp the hopes of the general's followers to start a bandwagon movement among uncommitted delegates to the July Chicago convention.

The News Agency declared the British had violated a four-power agreement in sealing off the station.

Rifle-carrying soldiers and barbed wire rined the big red brick building, a landmark in the British sector of free Berlin, to which the Russians cling for propaganda purposes when the city was divided in 1945.

About 20 Russian Tommygunners were isolated inside.

Two hundred British troops and German police swooped down on the building before dawn today in obvious retaliation for Communist seizure of three suburban communities that have been under Allied administration. A royal Scot detachment with fixed bayonets took up positions at the entrance.

Senate To Vote On Compromise Foreign Aid Bill

Washington, June 3—(AP)—Senate House conferees today approved a military and economic aid program for foreign countries totalling $6,447,730,750 for the year starting July 1.

The amount was $1,468,750,250 less than President Truman asked.

Acting with almost unprecedented speed, the Senate-House conference committee cleared the way for action this week on the bill designed to strengthen global defenses against Russian Communism.

Sen. Connally (D-Tex) chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, told reporters the conference group "split the difference" between bills previously approved by the Senate and the House.

The House had cut Truman's request to slightly over six billion dollars; the Senate almost $6,700,000,000.

Connally predicted quick Senate passage, possibly tomorrow, but refused to hazard a guess whether the House would go along.

The Senate is scheduled to take up the big authorization bill first. Following passage, a bill to actually appropriate the money must also win congressional approval.

Dwight D. Eisenhower wrote the Senate foreign relations committee before he left his job in Europe that a cut of one billion dollars beneath Truman's request would be serious but not critical. He said any cuts below that amount, however, might affect Europe's capacity to arm herself and might in the long run have a direct effect on this country's security.

U. S. POST OFFICE $70 MILLION IN RED

Columbus, O., June 3—(AP)—Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson said last night the U. S. Post Office will lose $70 million dollars in the fiscal year 1953. The loss, he said, will come because postal rates haven't kept pace with rising operating costs since 1945.

Rescue 3 Trapped Miners, Fear 2 Dead In Cave-In

Ironwood, Mich., June 3—(AP)—Three of five miners trapped by a cave-in yesterday half a mile below the earth's surface walked unaided from the Penokee mine after their rescue this afternoon.

Search continued for two others but mine officials feared that they had been crushed to death under tons of earth and rock.

Still missing were Serafin Zacharewski, 36, and Jorma Olkonen, 33, both of Ironwood.

Cox, foreman of the crew, said he and Hocking and Kroecker took refuge under timbers when the cave-in occurred. The others started running at the same time but apparently didn't make it, he added.

"It was just one of those things," said Cox.

Huddled together in their crude shelter, the three men established communication this morning with rescue crews digging toward them from three directions. Signals were exchanged by tapping on timber with rocks. This went on for six hours as rescuers sought to force an air line through to the men.

One of the crews broke through to the entombed miners shortly before 4 p.m. (CDT) this afternoon, about 24 hours after the cave-in. Word spread rapidly through the city and several hundred persons gathered at the mouth of the mine.

The men were trapped 2,000 feet from the mine shaft which dives into the earth at a 65 degree angle. The cave-in occurred on a sub-level above the 29th or main level. Eight miners escaped. One of them said, "we heard a loud crack; then there was a rush of air and dust and we made tracks."

Work at the mine was to have ceased last night because of the steel strike. The Penokee mine is owned and operated by Republic Steel Corp., and the miners were to have come out on strike.

Kill One, Wound 7 In Control Fight With Kojie POWs

Kojie Island, Korea, Wednesday, June 4—(AP)—Tonight North Korean compound handed down its 32 Communist flags during the night under threat of a showdown but prisoners of war in a second compound still flaunted Red banners beyond the Allied deadline.

Four defiant POWs were wounded last night by guards in this big prison stockade where the Allied command and Red die-hards are waging a bitter struggle for internal control.

Battle-seasoned troops armed with bayonets, tear gas and riot guns and supported by tanks awaited the signal from Brig. Gen. Haydon L. (Bull) Boomer to charge into compound 85 and tear down the Red banners.

Boatmen deadline, handed to Communist leaders from the two compounds yesterday, was 7 a.m. (5 p.m., CDT, Tuesday).

A lone Communist flag appeared today over another compound, No. 60 holding about 200 North Koreans suspected of war crimes. It was not included in Tuesday's ultimatum to inmates of compounds 85 and 96.

The lowering of the flags—28 North Korea, two Chinese Communist and one Russian—and removal of defiant signs in compound 96 was something of a surprise. It had been regarded as the toughest of the 17 occupied enclosures here.

The wounding of four more North Korean prisoners Tuesday night brought prisoner casualty totals to one killed and seven wounded in three incidents in 24 hours.

U. S. guards told prisoners in compound 602 to remove clothing from an inner barbed wire fence. They backed up their orders with riot guns when the prisoners refused.

A camp spokesman said buckshot from the riot guns drove the Reds from the fence, wounding four slightly. The clothing was hung on the fence in defiance of camp orders, obstructing the view of guards.

Earlier Tuesday, a North Korean was killed and a second prisoner wounded by the accidental discharge of a machinegun into compound 78.

Trip To Observe Golden Wedding Date Ends In Death

Atkinson, Ill., June 3—(AP)—A Eureka, Ill., couple en route to a celebration of their 50th wedding anniversary at Atkinson was drowned today in the Hennepin canal, north of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Kearns drowned when their automobile apparently failed to negotiate a turn in the road, crashed into a bridge over the canal and dropped into the water. Their bodies were recovered several hours later.

The Kearns were driving to visit a son, the Rev. Lyford Kearns, at Atkinson. A daughter and two sons also survive.

3 Demos, 2 GOP Candidates Favor Price Support

New York, June 3—(AP)—Three Democratic and two Republican candidates for president favored farm price supports as essential to the welfare of the nation, in a radio broadcast tonight.

Those speaking on CBS' "Candidates and Issues" were Sen. Russell D. Gibson, "favorite son" and Mutual Security administrator; Gov. Earl Warren (R-Calif.); Harold Stassen, Republican, president of the University of Pennsylvania; and Sen. Kerr (D-Okla.).

All-Girl Bagpipe Band To Play In Scotland

Iowa City, Ia., June 3—(AP)—The director of the University of Iowa all-girl bagpipe band, miffed at criticism by the Aberdeen, Scotland, town council, said today he was ready to take on the councilor who led the criticism in a bagpipe playing competition.

William Adamson, who trained the 65-member band, said he was "very much surprised and greatly miffed" at the remarks made at the Aberdeen town council meeting last night.

The councilors, who had been asked whether they would like to see the girls perform when they tour Scotland this summer, angrily rejected a proposal that they pay the hotel bill and expenses for the girls in Aberdeen.

Councilor Frank Macrae called the girls "a lot of comic characters who make a mockery of Scotland's national instrument and dress."

He asked what Scot would want to hear traditional Scottish songs "sung bebop fashion or lived on the pipes," and said he imagined there would be "half a dozen chorus girls with practically nothing on playing the bagpipes."

Adamson, obviously annoyed at such comments, declared:

"We have played before hundreds of American and Canadian audiences, many of whom are Scottish people, and we have never had any adverse criticism of our performance or costumes."

Adamson said his mother was born in Aberdeen and that he regarded the comments by the council as "in bad taste."

"Our costumes are as authentic as they can be when worn by women," Adamson declared.

"Our bagpipes are imported from Scotland and our songs are authentic songs, played with a high respect for Scottish customs and traditions. These girls definitely are not chorus girls, and we definitely play no bebop or live on the pipes."

Ike Sees Need For Air Power In Future Wars

New Premier In Viet Nam Is Anti-Red

Saigon, Viet Nam, Indochina, June 3—(AP)—A strong man who proposes to combine agrarian reforms with sterner military pressure against Communist-led rebels became Viet Nam's premier today.

Chief of State Bao Dai dismissed the government of Premier Tran Van Huu and called on Nguyen Van Tam to form a new one.

Tam, 57, is a former minister of public security and interior minister of Viet Nam, which is allied with the French in the five-year-old war against the Vietnamese of Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh.

Tam declared his intention of placing the entire economy of Viet Nam on a war footing under a "true government of national union" that would include all shades of political opinion except the Reds.

He plans to build up Viet Nam's army from four divisions to eight by the end of the year.

"To combat Communism I am going to practice socialism with agrarian reform to win the population to our national cause," the premier declared in an interview.

He said he would cut the interest on farm loans and give farmers in recovered areas a valid title to lands distributed to them when the lands were under Communist control.

Former owners, mostly absentee landlords, have been laying claim to these sections. Tam said his government would pay off the landlords.

"The fruits of labor should go to those who work the land," he said, "and not to those who have been in refuge in Saigon or Paris."

LeTourneau is known to have pressed for a speedup in the formation of national army units to utilize the arms piling up from American aid shipments and further reinforce French troops fighting the rebels.

Viet Nam is the largest and most strategically situated of the Associated States of Indochina. The other states are the kingdoms of Cambodia and Laos. While major cities and such essential areas as the rice-growing Red river delta are held by the French and their allies, the rebels control much of the interior.

Acheson Regards Domestic Crisis In S. Korea Serious

Pusan, Korea, Wednesday, June 4—(AP)—Reliable sources said President Truman sent President Syngman Rhee a strong note Tuesday just as Rhee was about to dissolve the national assembly.

Korean government informants said Truman wrote that he was "shocked" by the political crisis in which Rhee's police had arrested 12 assemblymen. The assembly has recessed for lack of a quorum.

No one would say that Truman's note caused Rhee to stay his hand. But it was learned Rhee had held up the dissolution order and would try to reach a compromise with his political opponents in the assembly.

The U. S. embassy would say only that a note had been handed to Rhee. The 77-year-old Korean president was not available for comment.

The Korean sources said the note warned Rhee that South Korea faced a grave situation if the political crisis is not ended and added that the United Nations had sent troops to Korea to defend Democracy.

(Washington reported that U.S. Ambassador John J. Muccio cut short a vacation and was returning to Korea by plane after being instructed by the president on the U.S. attitude in the crisis.)

White House presidential Secretary Joseph Short said the president "discussed fully with the ambassador his concern over the domestic situation in the Republic of Korea."

(State department sources said Secretary of State Acheson sent Muccio back because he regarded the situation as "pressing and serious." Washington sources would neither confirm nor deny that Truman had sent Rhee a note.)

Demand For Red POW Return Only Armistice Block

Munsan, Wednesday, June 4—(AP)—Communist armistice negotiators were told coldly Tuesday that "the United Nations command will not drive personnel (Red prisoners) to you at the point of a bayonet."

Communist and U. N. delegations return to Panmunjom today at 11 a.m. (9 p.m. Tuesday CDT) for another session.

The strong words came from Maj. Gen. William K. Harrison, Jr., senior U. N. delegate, in a 13-minute speech Tuesday.

GREAT LAKES NAVAL DEPOT GETS $3,281,000

Washington, June 3—(AP)—The House armed services committee today authorized fifty naval construction projects in the United States, as part of a 306 million dollar program for next year.

The committee is considering a three billion dollar building program for all services. Top officials have testified this is a bare minimum.

Today's approvals mostly followed naval department recommendations. Among approved projects was the naval supply depot, Great Lakes, Ill., $3,281,000.

Warren Gains Lead In Home State, Kefauver, 2 To 1

San Francisco, June 3—(AP)—Gov. Earl Warren climbed ahead of an uncommitted slate after trailing temporarily in partial returns of California's slam-bang election battle for 70 Republican presidential delegates today.

The vote from 546 of the total 19,730 precincts gave the total term governor 15,106 to 11,430 for the rival delegation carrying the name of Rep. Thomas H. Werdel as nominal candidate.

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee moved easily into a 2 to 1 lead over a similar free-choice slate headed by Atty. Gen. Edmund G. Brown, who took over the stranded Truman delegation. He appeared assured of California's 68 convention votes to boost his front-running national total of delegates.

Returns from 562 precincts gave Kefauver 19,270, Brown 10,767.

Warren, who charged his foes spent a half million dollars for a campaign of hate, first fell behind on the strength of the early count in Los Angeles county. He led elsewhere—but Los Angeles alone has over 40 per cent of the 58-count vote.

But as a more representative count came in from Los Angeles, Warren grabbed a slender lead in 400 of the big county's 7,550 precincts. The count: Warren, 9,629; Werdel, 9,380.

All signs pointed to an unusually heavy vote—drawn by the bitter fight between Warren and Werdel and some hot local contests.

Senator Charges Fraud In Internal Revenue Bureau

Washington, June 3—(AP)—In another blast at the internal revenue bureau, Sen. Williams (R-Del.) charged today that a man who owes three-quarters of a million dollars in income taxes and penalties was able to collect almost half a million from the government for running a butchering school.

Williams identified the man as Jack Udell, who divides his residence between New York, Frankfort, Del., and Miami Beach, Fla.

He told the Senate that after Udell hired Joseph D. Nunan, a former internal revenue commissioner, as his lawyer he was "successful in having his $792,094 tax case pigeon-holed in the files of the Department of Justice."

Meanwhile, the Delaware senator said, Udell collected $451,559 from the Veterans Administration for running the national Meat and Food Institute in Miami, "supposedly for the purpose of teaching veterans how to cut up poultry and other meats."

Parliament Bill Becomes Law In South Africa

Capetown, South Africa, June 3—(AP)—Premier Daniel Malan announced in Parliament today that the Governor General had signed the High Court of Parliament bill making it law.

Almost immediately, J. G. N. Strauss, leader of the opposition United party, declared that validity of the measure would be tested at once in the appeal court, the Supreme Court until the High Court of Parliament was created.

At the same time Interior Minister T. E. Dönges is ready to apply to the new court for a review of the decision of the Appeal Court declaring unconstitutional the law removing 50,000 Cape colored folk (people of mixed blood) from the general election rolls.

Will Speak Freely On His Policies

Washington, June 2—(AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower took off his five stars today and rolled up his sleeves — braced new civilian sleeves — for the political battle ahead.

Taking leave of the army — after 37 years, he couldn't bring himself to say the word "goodbye" — Eisenhower edged into the fight for the Republican presidential nomination with a reply to Senator Robert A. Taft's criticism of his air power views.

To Taft's remarks about "land generals" and his charge that the air force began deteriorating under Eisenhower as chief of staff, the retiring general declared that he had always been a strong advocate of air power — and that he believes that air power will have a dominant role in any future war.

But he also said at a news conference:

"Anyone who finds out that the ordinary foot soldier can be finally eliminated from war, I wish he would show me how to do it."

After the news conference, held at the Pentagon, Eisenhower formally accepted retirement orders in a solemn ceremony on the sun-flecked lawn outside the building.

Some 2,000 people looked on, and an army band played "Auld Lang Syne" in a sentimental farewell.

Eisenhower jumped into a car and wheeled away to a hotel to pull off his uniform, get into civilian attire and conferred with men who are master-minding the campaign to get him, instead of Taft, the Republican nomination for president.

Taft said in a radio address last Sunday that a "steady deterioration" of America's relative air strength began while Eisenhower was army chief of staff.

Answers Criticism
The first question popped at Eisenhower in his final news conference as an officer of the army dealt with this criticism:

"I believe," Eisenhower said "without exception I fought for more air power than was ever granted us."

He said he had come out of the war convinced that air power should be divorced from the ground forces and "instantly started a campaign" in that direction. He said he had stood with Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, former air force chief, for 70 groups but "we were whittled down."

In many public statements, Eisenhower said, he has emphasized that air power would be the dominant force in any war of the future.

Once the news conference and the retirement ceremonies were over, Eisenhower quickly made the transformation to politician. He lunched with three top directors of the Eisenhower for President movement.

Senators Lodge of Massachusetts and Duff of Pennsylvania and Paul Hoffman, former Marshall plan administrator.

"That was preliminary to a take-off late in the afternoon for Abilene, Kan., the little prairie town where Eisenhower spent his boyhood. A speech and a gala homecoming tomorrow will give the hometown hero a chance to open up on issues and personalities involved in the drive for the GOP nomination.

Omit Purely Political Questions
Today's news conference, so were purely political questions. But there were some that touched on military affairs and foreign policy that are linked inevitably to politics in an election year.

Eisenhower himself, while still in uniform, said he preferred that his job as supreme allied commander in Europe be the "principal subject" of the conference.

"But," he said, "I will say this and I think I don't have to prove it: I have never hesitated under appropriate circumstances, as far as I know, to speak my mind freely if I thought I had an idea or felt a policy or something as high-sounding as a philosophy of government. I have never hesitated for a second to state it, and I do not intend to hesitate in the future to speak out my own mind."

On universal military training — a measure for which Senator Taft sees no need at present — Eisenhower had some views to state.

He said he always had believed that UMT would lessen the chances of war, by giving youths the training that would offer them a chance of survival in time of war, and by putting the United States before the world as intent on protecting its own system and ideals.

A GOOD LAW—ENFORCE IT

Every Illinois automobile driver who has blinked to see through gobs of mud and water splashed against his windshield will applaud a new law effective July 1. On and after that date trucks operating on highways of this state must be equipped with rear fender splash guards.

This means that during the next month thousands of truck owners must get busy and put on splash guards. Many trucks are already equipped with them, but the experiences of motorists during or after rains testify to the need for more protection. A fast-traveling truck can kick up about as much mud and water as a Florida hurricane.

We understand that there are no set specifications as to how large these splash guards shall be, or how they shall be attached. The law puts the obligation squarely on the shoulders of the owners and operators. They should be certain that the new accessories do the job before they venture out on the highway.

A notice from Springfield says violators are subject to arrest. There is nothing especially queer about that fact. A law must have teeth in it before it commands respect. As victim of innumerable splashing and squashing in the wake of trucks, we join with other besplattered motorists in urging the State of Illinois to enforce the new law.

AIR LOSSES IN KOREA

For a war which has been termed a local police action the U. S. has paid a rather steep price in planes alone in Korea. Plane losses by the Allies—most of them U. S. planes, of course—now total more than 1,400, more than three times that of the Communists.

These figures are not proof of Communist superiority in types of planes involved. It is emphasized the Communists do not operate in the air except as interceptors and stay clear of ground fire, which has taken heaviest toll of U. S. craft.

The U. S. Air Force has lost only 69 in combat, but ground fire accounted for 434, while 56 were lost due to other causes. Navy and Marine Corps losses brought the total past the 1,400 mark.

It has been the policy of Allied forces to fly cover for ground action and to supply protection from enemy anti-aircraft weapons, described as effective and accurate.

There is no report on the number of personnel lost, but total Allied casualties—90 per cent American—long ago passed the 100,000 mark.

HOW TO LOSE WEIGHT?
JUST BRAG IT OFF

BY HAL BOYLE

New York—(P)—Do you want to lose weight?

You don't have to go on a prolonged starvation diet. You don't have to gulp appetite-reducing pills or consult a psychiatrist. You don't have to take sweat baths, lift barbells, or go on 20-mile hikes. All you have to do is brag. . . brag. . . brag. The pounds will roll off you magically.

There are two kinds of people among perhaps 25,000,000 dying Americans:

(1) The strong, silent type who keep their weight-reducing project to themselves. There are a lot of these but you never hear about them.

(2) The talkative type that insists on discussing diets with anybody and everything.

The first type gets a scientific diet from his doctor, chews his clery in melancholy solitude, drops a few pounds in lonely silence, and then gets sick of the whole business because "who cares?" Soon he is putting whipped cream on his pork chops again and getting fatter. . . fatter. . . fatter than ever.

The second type starts out the same way. But he doesn't lose interest. After losing a few pounds, he starts in to brag.

"I used to be as plump as a railroad roundhouse," he says. "And now already I am beginning to look like the Eiffel Tower."

The more he brags the more he wants to lose; the more he loses the more he wants to brag.

As I say, I feel I discovered this myself. I hit the scales at 204 pounds before I decided to do anything about it. I got a diet from my doctor, read all the books on the subject and hung a picture of the late Mohandas Gandhi in my bedroom. He was my ideal pinup boy.

In the beginning I guess I was the strong silent type. I would lose a few pounds, become sick of the whole business, and eat the lost pounds back in two days. I hated to talk about my diet for fear of boring people.

One day an acquaintance bored me for two hours talking about his diet. In revenge I talked to him for a full hour about my diet. To my surprise, when I weighed myself going home, I found I had mysteriously lost a pound.

The next day I bragged to another acquaintance for another hour. The result: Another pound gone.

Every day since then I have bragged.

This has worked so well that I now tip the scales at 182—just 22 pounds down, and still losing.

THOUGHTS

Oh that my grief were thoroughly weeded, and my calamity laid in the balances together!—Job, 6:2.

As the rose-tree is composed of the sweetest flowers and the sharpest thorns—as the heavens are sometimes overcast, alternately tempestuous and serene: so is the life of man intermingled with hopes and fears, with joy and sorrows, with pleasure and with pains.—Burton.

BARBS

BY HAL COCHRAN

Men laugh at the clothes women wear—and then walk around on hot summer days willing stiff collars.

If the grown-ups wait up to kiss the kids goodnight, no wonder they don't get any sleep.

Nature can duck the blame for some of the hot air this summer—there'll be lots of campaign speeches.

An Illinois man asked for a divorce because his wife refused to cook anything but eggs. He really got hard-boiled about it.

Anger impairs vision, according to a scientist. So we all get so mad we can't see straight.

The MATURE PARENT
Demand for Privacy Reflects Craving to Be Independent
BY MURIEL LAWRENCE

Helen is 15. She and some friends have decided she should have a room of her own. That none is available in her parents' home is of no consequence.

Feeling runs high. Helen behaves in a manner that suggests she thinks her mother has a bedroom in her apron pocket, and is withholding it through malice and spite.

This afternoon she came bounding into the kitchen where her mother was draining the washing machine, and said accusingly: "It's not my fault if there's not enough money around here to take a bigger apartment. I'm not the one who should have to share my bedroom. You and daddy are. I think you and daddy should take Sissy into your bedroom and let me have mine to myself. Everyone I know has privacy but me!"

Helen's mother has been so badgered lately with her child's ideas on privacy that she hasn't got around to figuring out her own ideas at all. In no time at all, Helen's badgered parent is not only agreeing to refer her child's bad proposal to her husband, but finds herself apologizing for his income.

In these days of crowded living space, it is intelligent to get set on what we mean by "privacy" so we can't be bullied by young and thoughtless ideas about it.

Helen's definition, for example, is pretty superficial. She believes privacy is cubic feet, a lock on a door and the absence of other people. Privacy is really ease of mind.

Physical space acquired at the cost of her family's trust and respect will not give Helen privacy. Instead of ease of mind, it will give her nagging, uncomfortable, ashamed feelings and thoughts. She will have to defend herself by being so disagreeable to those who have allowed her to hate herself that there'll be no joy for her or anyone around her.

The truth is, Helen's demand for "privacy" is not craving for personal space at all, but for personal freedom from restrictions she has outgrown. What I think she really wants her mother to say is something like this: "No, your idea would make you ashamed of yourself. However, I think I know the kind of privacy you're really after, if you'll let me prove it to you."

"Suppose Daddy and I give you an extra hour for weekend evening dates? I'll have a serious talk with Sissy about her habit of interrupting your phone conversations. And I know you get angry when Daddy fusses over giving you the use of the living room. If he and I give you these privileges, darling, I think you'll find they are what you've been missing. Let's try them out—and see what happens."

Helen has just sounded as though she wants equipment for more abundant living. What the child is really after are values for it.

It's my conviction that seven times out of 10, young people's beligerent demands for things are actually appeals for help on how to feel and how to think about their problems.

They are appeals for release from the fear of friends' criticism, from discouragement, from suspicion that they lack desirable qualities of character—not appeals for dresses, rooms, fair allowances or just shares in the car.

Seven times out of 10, we are being asked for help, not with the acquiring of possessions, but with the acquiring of self-understanding, self-respect and peace of mind.

Spastic Intestinal Disorder Is Worsened by Worry, Fatigue

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Astonishingly large numbers of people suffer from vague discomfort and pains in the abdomen. When this is accompanied by alternating periods of diarrhea and constipation, the condition is likely to be what is known as spastic colon, or irritable bowel.

Apparently this disorder is more common in modern civilization than it used to be and is tied up closely with the tense pace and nervous strain of city living. Whether it is purely of nervous origin or not no one knows for certain. It does not lead to serious disease and is always made worse by emotional upsets or dietary indiscretion.

The pain and discomfort may be felt all over the abdomen or just in some sections, most commonly in the lower portion. All too often the symptoms go on for years with periods of partial recovery and then a worsening. Attacks may persist for anywhere from a few minutes to several months.

When pain is present, it is gripping and crampy in nature. People often complain of bloating and of gurgling sounds. The discomfort may be so bad that it disturbs the sleep. Many victims blame this condition on constipation and are likely to take a cathartic. This tends to make the symptoms worse.

Worry, emotional upset, or anxiety frequently come just before an attack. Exposure to cold, fatigue, tobacco, laxatives and certain kinds of food also bring on the symptoms.

An irritable colon does not mean that disease is present. There is, rather, a disturbance in the action of the intestines and medical treatment rather than surgery is what is necessary.

Physicians try to get to the bottom of the mental worry or tension which is making the condition worse. Also, it is advisable to find out whether someone with spastic colon has anything wrong with his or her glands of internal secretion.

Medicines Helpful

Several medicines may be helpful. The diet is also extremely important—vegetables and many fruits usually increase the irritation. Cooked cereals, milk, or milk products, eggs and fish, custards and similar foods usually should make up the bulk of the diet.

Spastic colon does not have any influence on the duration of life in spite of the distress which it causes. It does not lead to cancer. Unfortunately many people who are afflicted with it also have a tendency to worry about their health too much and this makes it all the more difficult to relieve the symptoms.

Smart Film Stars Turn Away From 'Shy Homebody' Publicity

Some of the younger Hollywood stars are turning thumbs down on the kind of publicity that attempts to make them seem to be shy little homebodies, who can whip up a meal with as much dispatch as Mrs. Jones next door and whose main interests in life are reading books on child care and weeding the flower bed.

Several of them lately have come out flat-footedly against feeding the public that kind of press agency.

They're smart girls. Women who make a full time job of housework and children and husbands aren't impressed by the "movie-stars-are-just-like-you" buildup.

When they see a publicity shot of a Hollywood glamor girl in an ordinary apron standing in a dream kitchen supposedly cooking her movie star husband's evening meal, real honest-to-godness housewives are more likely to give out with a lady-like hoot than with a sigh of self-identification.

MRS. AMERICA WANTS TO READ OF GLAMOROUS LIFE

The phoniness is so obvious it is irritating. And on top of that there is no glamor in such publicity.

When Mrs. America reads about the Hollywood stars she is trying to escape for a few minutes from her own kitchen.

She wants to read about a way of life that is entirely different from her own. Give her a choice of reading about the doings of Rita Hayworth or peeping into the kitchen of a Hollywood star who is being given the homebody buildup, and she'll read about Rita every time.

She may cluck her disapproval as she reads, but she'll read right on, nevertheless.

So the girls are smart who are starting to shy away from the phony homebody buildup.

Mrs. America would rather look at them in mink than in aprons, read about their parties than their unhappy childhoods, and visit with them pictorially on the edge of their swimming pools than in their kitchens.

LITTLE LIZ

Most men are inclined to defend women against every man but themselves.

The World Today
BY JAMES MARLOW

Washington, June 3—(P)—This is where we came in.

It was to prevent a work stoppage in the steel industry that President Truman seized the mills in the first place.

Now the Supreme Court has cancelled the seizure, ordered the mills given back to the owners, and the steelworkers are on strike.

This puts both the president and congress on the spot.

While the government had the mills, the workers worked. Now the strike is on after several threats and one brief walkout. And the country can't do without steel products indefinitely.

Congress can pass a law giving the president legal right to seize the mills again or it could pass a law forbidding a strike in steel. Or perhaps it could find some other answer not thought of so far.

It's possible the steel industry and the workers can reach a settlement between themselves. But the solution can't come from either of them unless (A) the workers yield on their demands, which is highly unlikely, or (B) the industry gives the raise without insisting on government permission to raise prices commensurately.

It was the mill owners' insistence on a substantial price increase, and government refusal to grant as much as they wanted, that produced the crisis leading to the seizure.

For his part the president can (A) order the Office of Price Stabilization to give the price boost asked by the industry or (B) use the Taft-Hartley law to delay the strike further or (C) ask Congress for special legislation to handle this situation. He could use A and B together.

Of course he could sit back and do nothing, waiting for congress to show what it can do. Congress could sit back, too, and do nothing, waiting for him to act.

But presidential or legislative putting, or inaction, would be too much of a luxury in a country affected by anything so serious as a steel strike.

Newspaper's Suit Spotlights McCarran Hostility to Press
BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington—(NEA)—Nevada Sen. Pat McCarran's new proposal to ban news photographers, radio and television broadcasting apparatus from committee hearings is regarded here as merely the latest in a series of moves to impose censorship on many phases of American life.

The McCarran act has barred from admission to the United States, even on temporary visitors' permits, a number of the world's leading scientists.

The McCarran omnibus immigration bill, which was recently passed by the Senate, further tightened these restrictions on the admission of foreigners to this country.

Sensor McCarran's Internal Security Committee's investigations and the examination of witness brought before it have constantly challenged the right to freedom of opinion and freedom of speech.

To the extent that these various activities have been directed at combating communism and Communist propaganda they have been generally commended. Senator McCarran's antagonism to freedom of speech and freedom of the press goes deeper than this, however, as revealed by his campaign against publications that have been critical of him in his own state of Nevada.

H. M. Greenspun, publisher of the Las Vegas (Nev.) Sun, has been in Washington and New York recently, frankly and openly trying to raise money to carry on his fight against what he says is a McCarran-ordered boycott of resort advertising in his newspaper.

Greenspun has filed a million-dollar damage suit against Senator McCarran; the senator's administrative assistant Eva Adams; Marion Hicks manager of the Thunderbird hotel and various other resort and gambling club operators.

Suit Charges Conspiracy in Restraint of Trade

The charge in this suit is conspiracy in restraint of trade under the fair trade laws. Without this advertising from the five resort hotels in the Las Vegas area, Greenspun may have to fold, or else knuckle under to McCarran pressure.

This latter is what happened in the case of a Reno sheet, the Nevada Labor News. Its publisher, Denver Dickerson, started out on a campaign of criticism of the McCarran political machine operations.

Pressure was brought to bear on the paper's advertisers, including the casinos, to withdraw their support. Today the paper is no longer critical of McCarran and the ads are back.

Hank Greenspun's story of opposition to McCarran is much more than this. He was born and brought up in New Haven, Conn., and went to law school in New York. He is in his middle 30s.

He got into the war and saw combat service in Europe. He got trench foot and was invalided to a British hospital. Though a blue-eyed Jewish boy himself, he married his Irish nurse and brought her home. They now have four children.

In New York after the war, Greenspun got mixed up in the illegal shipment of arms to Israel and took the rap for it.

Then he got involved with Bones Remmer, New York racing figure, who thought he had an inside track to get a state franchise for a new horse-racing concession near Buffalo. When that evaporated, Remmer and Greenspun got in Greenspun's car and drove to Las Vegas.

Greenspun Took Paper Over From Typo Union

Remmer remembered that Tom Mix once told him what a wonderful place Las Vegas was for a resort center. Remmer thought he might open a track there.

When they got to the edge of town, Remmer remarked at once, "This place is too small to support a track." Nevertheless he sold stock in the venture, until some past income tax troubles caught up with him.

But Greenspun liked Las Vegas, its warm sun and dry air. He called his wife in New York and told her to come on out.

He got a job first as press agent for a hotel. Then he started a Las Vegas magazine for tourists.

A short time before the Typographical union had pulled a strike on the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the established and then the only paper in town. Unable to win the strike, the union started a paper of its own in opposition.

The Sun was a losing proposition right from the start. After it had shown a deficit for some months running, Greenspun went to Typo Union headquarters in Indianapolis and offered to take the paper off its hands. He had no money, but the union took his notes.

Greenspun says he was doing all right till he decided to take after Senator McCarran as the too-powerful boss of the state. He printed some pictures and a story about Tom Mechlun, who is running for U. S. Senator against Alan Bible, McCarran's law partner. That was when they began to put the screws on him.

Greenspun says all the resort operators are his friends, and would like to support his paper. But the Senators won't let 'em. They give him some "Red Cross" ads on the side. But even with these he hasn't much chance of winning.

Free From Debt
The city of Jacksonville has no outstanding general obligations for corporate purposes, has been debt-free since 1946 and has operated on a cash basis for more than 10 years. While the above statement may seem to show a good financial position, yet, there are many services that are greatly curtailed, some others not performed at all, due to lack of finances.

The Police Department is composed of 16 men including the chief of the department. The 1952 budget for this department is $68,510. The scale of wage for patrolmen is $250 per month. The personnel consists of a chief, a captain, a lieutenant, one traffic officer, 3 desk sergeants and 9 patrolmen. For a city of our size our traffic branch should have a minimum of 4 men and at least 6 additional patrolmen. If we had the additional manpower at the present wage scale the department budget would amount to approximately $95,000. The men work 8 hour shifts 6 days per week. The only reason we can operate as efficiently as we do is merely because the men realize the lack of manpower is due to lack of finances and often work on their own time to help out when more help is needed.

In the Fire Department we operate on the two-platoon system of 24 hours on, and 24 hours off, with the off-duty men reporting to the station when fire calls take the on-duty men out with the equipment. Here again a shortage of manpower prevails. We have 12 men and a chief, 13 in all, working out of a central station, covering the entire city. If we were up to full strength as recommended by the Underwriters we would need at least 10 additional men. The present budget is $54,335, the pay scale is the same as the police, $250 per month for regular firemen. The officers consist of a chief, assistant chief and a captain. The additional 10 men would raise the present budget $30,000.

Mayor Outlines Plight Of City's Finances To State Commission

Appearing before a legislature commission Tuesday, looking into the financial plight of Illinois municipalities, Mayor Ernest L. Hoagland told the commissioners, on behalf of Jacksonville, "it is my belief that to do an efficient job of public service we need an additional $75,000 per year."

He said that while Jacksonville "has no outstanding general obligations for corporate purposes, has been debt-free since 1946 and has operated on a cash basis for more than ten years, . . . yet there are many services that are greatly curtailed, some others not performed at all, due to lack of finances."

Jacksonville was one of 13 cities in Central Illinois which presented their financial conditions to the Municipal Revenue Commission. Two weeks ago the commission heard similar reports from officials of Southern Illinois cities at a Carbondale hearing, and later this month a hearing will be held for Northern Illinois municipalities.

The commission, which has a $50,000 appropriation, will report its recommendations to the legislature in 1953. The municipalities of the state are almost universally in a poor financial state, with incomes from property and other taxes greatly curtailed from 20 years ago, but at the same time faced with servicing larger populations at costs greater than ever before.

Mayor Hoagland's complete statement to the commission, setting forth Jacksonville's plight, is as follows:

"In making this statement to the Commission, as a city official, I am convinced that all the cities of Illinois are faced with many of the same financial problems and perhaps a general statement could be made that would apply to all cities; however I will confine my remarks to the city of Jacksonville, a city of approximately 24,000 population.

"The city of Jacksonville has no outstanding general obligations for corporate purposes, has been debt-free since 1946 and has operated on a cash basis for more than 10 years. While the above statement may seem to show a good financial position, yet, there are many services that are greatly curtailed, some others not performed at all, due to lack of finances.

State Institutions Here
There is one item I think should be mentioned regarding the Fire Department. This may not affect too many other Illinois cities, but it is important to Jacksonville. There are three state institutions in Jacksonville: the State Hospital for the insane; the Illinois School for the Deaf, and the Illinois School for the Blind. These institutions represent several million dollars in state property. There is also a responsibility for the lives of several thousand handicapped people. While the State Hospital does have a pumper and maintains a very small fire fighting force, the department would not be

S. Jacksonville School Petitions To Be Circulated

Petitions calling for the annexation of Consolidated School District No. 2 to Jacksonville's School District No. 117 will be circulated among the legal voters of South Jacksonville and the remainder of the district immediately after July 1, it was announced Tuesday.

The campaign for signatures originally was planned for early June, but a change in the school district boundary law necessitated postponement, it was said. According to provisions now applying, petitions bearing the signatures of two-thirds of the voters of a district are to be filed for judgment by the county court. But this procedure will be invalid after July 1.

Beginning next month petitions, still requiring approval of two-thirds of the voters, will be presented to the Morgan county board of school trustees for decision. The board was created by state statute last year and its seven members were chosen at the primary election April 8.

According to legal opinion emanating from the state department of public instruction, petitions which are to be presented to the new board of school trustees may not be circulated among the voters until after July 1.

A spokesman for the South Jacksonville PTA said Tuesday that an organization to obtain signatures is being perfected and "we will be ready to go just as soon as it is legally permissible to do so."

A recommendation for annexation was approved by the South Jacksonville PTA last month on the basis of an extensive study of the problem, which was posed when the state legislature passed an act requiring movement "has no connection, direct or indirect, with any proposition to unite the village of south Jacksonville with the city. It is simply a proposition to join school districts."

Mrs. Tucker's Chocolate Cake Praised by Mrs. Clara Buskis Of Clara's Catering Service

"I have baked lots of cakes before," states Mrs. Clara Buskis, proprietor of Clara's Catering Service, located in the Administration Building at the State Fair Grounds, Springfield, "but this was the first time I had ever used Mrs. Tucker's Shortening. For the test I used my own Clara's Chocolate Cake recipe, and it turned out as fine a chocolate cake as anyone could want! I especially noted how quickly and easily the Mrs. Tucker's creamed and mixed, and how moist and tender the finished cake was."

"I was surprised to learn about the unusual GUARANTEED CAKE INSURANCE Mrs. Tucker's offers. . . I understand that you can bake any cake with Mrs. Tucker's Shortening, using any recipe that calls for shortening, and if you don't agree that your cake is better than any cake you ever made before, using ANY other kind of shortening, that it is LIGHTER, FINER, MORE MOIST, and TENDER, then all you do is send the recipe to Mrs. Tucker's Homemakers' Department at Sherman, Texas, telling what you didn't like about the cake, and Mrs. Tucker's will repay you for all the ingredients used, PLUS a dollar for your baking time! To my viewpoint, that's a REAL guarantee, and it's no wonder that Mrs. Tucker's is so good for baking cakes."

Shirley Canull Of Ashland Weds Kenneth Skinner

Ashland — Miss Shirley Canull, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Canull and Kenneth Skinner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thelbert Skinner, both of southeast of Ashland, were united in marriage Sunday afternoon, May 31 at the Ashland Baptist church. Rev. Gordon E. Wood of Springfield was the officiating pastor.

Mrs. Seth Minter sang "I Love You Truly," "Always" and "Because" with Mrs. J. H. Douglass as accompanist. At the close of the service Wayne Wood sang, "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride's gown was heavy candlelight satin with the yoke and sleeves of Chantilly lace and unusual four-fold drape of satin gave an off shoulder effect to the fitted bodice above the full skirt which ended in a Cathedral length train. She carried a garland of white carnations centered with an orchid.

Miss Geraldine Douglas was maid of honor and wore green net, floor length and carried yellow carnations tied with orchid streamers.

Miss Mary Lou Skinner was bridesmaid and wore orchid net and carried yellow carnations with green streamers. The bridegroom wore his navy regulation uniform. Edde Canull, brother of the bride, was best man and Bud Sollers of Great Lakes, Ill. was groomsmen. Ushers were Wade Dudley, Jack Martin and Vincent Disco, all of Pleasant Plains.

The couple left for a short wedding trip after a reception at the church at which Mrs. Mae Schewe, Miss Myrtle Frost and Mrs. Bill Armstrong assisted.

The bride is a junior at the Ashland high school. The bridegroom will return to Great Lakes and later be transferred to another station.

Picture of a Pair who just waked up

HERE in the driveway is a Buick. It has just arrived. It belongs to this proud young couple. They've just "arrived" too.

They've arrived at a discovery—the discovery that owning a Buick instead of a "low-priced car" isn't so much a matter of money.

It's a matter of knowing the facts of life. Buick prices are closer to the prices of smaller, less powerful, less distinguished cars than most people think.

Why don't you check into this?

You'll find you could pay $300 to $400 more—and still not match the horsepower of this nimble beauty.

You could pay hundreds of dollars more—and still not get any more interior room, or richer fabrics.

But that's only part of the story.

The big thing about any car is the way it goes. So you ought to find out how this car rides the road—the freedom from bobble and sway that cost a million real dollars to develop.

You ought to sample the way Dynaflo Drive* feeds the power—with a steady swoop and unbroken smoothness in city traffic, on hills, or out on the open road.

And you ought to know how it feels to touch off that Fireball 8 Engine. With all its might, this high-compression valve-in-head gets a lot of miles from a gallon of gas.

We'll tell you this—because a lot of folks have told us this: No matter what car you're driving now—no matter what cars you've looked at—they'll never seem the same after you try this one.

Just give us a chance to prove it—and you'll have a lot of fun.

Miss Smith wore a gown of pastel yellow organza styled similar to that of the bride. The attendants had was of the yellow, matching her gown and her arm bouquet was of satin streamer white carnations. White linen pumps carried out the yellow and white color combination.

Mrs. Meyer wore for her son's wedding an aqua colored suit with white accessories and a corsage of carnations and sweet peas.

Easter drove in half of the Indians' tallies with his eighth homer and a single as they snapped a three-game losing streak.

The Indians belted 13 hits, getting nine of them for all of their runs against lefty Maury McDermott, who was coming off a one-hit victory, during which he faced only 27 batters.

American Women Golfers Prepare For Curtis Cupper

Muirfield, Scotland, June 3 —(P)—American women golfers sharpened up their iron shots today on the treeless Muirfield course in preparation for their defense of the Curtis cup against the British on Friday and Saturday.

Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite, the team's non-playing captain from Fort Worth, Texas, said the United States contingent has learned a lot in the last two days about this tricky layout on Scotland's East Coast.

"The Greens are larger than we are used to at home and there are quite a few fairway traps," she said. "Some of the girls have been surprised that there are no trees here."

"It makes some difference in your judgment of distance if you are used to approaching against a background of trees. We are working that out, though, in these practice rounds."

The British women never have won the Curtis cup. Their best performance was a tie at Glenageary, Scotland, in 1936. The United States won the first competition in 1932 and also triumphed in 1934, 1938, 1948 and 1950.

Muirfield's usual length for men is 6,806 yards. Wednesday a committee will decide the location of women's tees to make the course about 6,460 yards long. Muirfield never has been used for women's competition.

Three foursome matches will be played on Friday and six singles matches the following day.

George Kell One Of Stars Involved In Biggest Trade

By Harry Stapler

Detroit, June 3 —(P)—The penultimate Boston Red Sox and the last place Detroit Tigers swapped nine players today in a "million dollar" deal that jolted the baseball world.

The trade, one of the biggest in the American league in years, shipped all-star third baseman George Kell and outfielder Hoot Evers to the Red Sox. And the Tigers got slugger first baseman Walt Dropo, outfielder Don Lehardt and infielder Johnny Pesky. They were the big names.

The Red Sox also obtained Johnny Ligon, the Tigers' regular shortstop and relief pitcher Dizzy Trout. Boston recalled first baseman Dick Gremore from Louisville to fill the first base gap.

In addition, the Tigers acquired third baseman Fred Hatfield and pitcher Bill Wigton.

Biggest surprise was Kell's departure. But General Manager Charlie Gehringer of the Tigers said, "He hadn't been helping us enough while we were in the cellar so we gave him up to get some long ball punch in Dropo and Lehardt."

Kell, a $42,000 salaried player, led the American league in batting in 1949, was second in 1950 and third in 1951. Kell, on the All-Star team for the last five years, was batting .286 this season.

Red Sox Manager Lou Boudreau said he would start Kell right away against Cleveland and would start Evers, who paced the Tigers' unsuccessful 1950 pennant bid, as soon as the speedy outfielder fully recovered from a broken thumb. Evers played last night for the first time this year, getting a pinch hit single.

"I'd call it a million dollar deal," said Gehringer. "We weren't getting anywhere with the guys we gave up. In Dropo and Lehardt we got some run-making power—something Kell and Evers hadn't been able to do."

"Our immediate aim was to get Kell," said Manager Lou Boudreau. "Now we've got a set ball club, something we didn't have before."

Charles-Walcott In Final Workouts Before Title Fight

By Jack Hand

Atlantic City, June 3 —(P)—Challenger Ezzard Charles turned on the heat in a blazing final workout today, while heavyweight champion Jersey Joe Walcott coasted through three easy rounds in their final boxing drills for Thursday's title fight at Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium.

Charles, hoping to rewrite ring tradition by becoming the first ex-champ ever to win back the crown, remained a heavy favorite with the price bobbing around 13 to 5. It was 6 to 5 that the 38-year-old Walcott wouldn't last the route.

Reports from Philadelphia indicated a crowd of 25,000 and a gate of over $200,000, given a break from the weather man. A total of $130,000 already was in the till.

Heaviest in his career, Charles blasted Al Smith of New York and Julie Keene of Washington in a four-round drill at nearby Pleasantville. Against Keene, a flashy light heavyweight, Charles stepped around with good speed and drove home several stiff rights to the head. His hooks to the body were particularly impressive.

Russia Will Compete In Summer Olympics

Helsinki, Finland, June 3 —(P)—Russia today announced it would participate in the summer Olympics here thus bringing to a close months of speculation on whether the Soviets would send teams to the games.

The only sport the Russians will not participate in is field hockey. The announcement did not come as a complete surprise because the Russians have been attending most Olympic meetings and are members of most international federations—a requisite for participation in the games.

This will be the first time modern Russia has taken part in the international games. Before the revolution, Czarist Russia entered teams but had indifferent success.

This year the Soviets said they plan to send about 300 athletes to the games, and officials and writers here immediately predicted they would turn in good performances.

They pointed out that the Russian government, which has fierce pride, would not permit an athlete not moderately certain of doing well to make the trip.

The announcement did not say where the Russians would stay or the number of officials who would accompany the team. There was some speculation that the Russians would fly their athletes back and forth to some nearby Russian town. Some Russian cities are only about 300 air miles from Helsinki.

Moscow correspondents say the Russian women track and field stars are good and that some top performances can be expected from the men in swimming and hockey. The Soviets also should do well in soccer since the sport attracts considerable attention inside the Iron Curtain.

In soccer, the Russians will have to deal with 27 other nations, a relatively small list.

Why they are not going to have a field hockey team, the Russians did not explain.

The National league squad lines up this way: Outfield—Mel Ott, Eddie Roush and Paul Waner. Infield—Bill Terry, first; Frank Frisch, second; Wagner and Traynor. Gaby Hartnett, catcher; Alexander and Hubbell, pitchers.

With Hornsby locked in a journalistic feud with Cobb and grandpappy Satchel Paige holding the Browns up by the seat of their diapers, the St. Louis American league team will not want for publicity the next few weeks.

Bill Reed, Boston Braves' rookie second baseman, hit a double his first time at bat in the National League this season.

The last active major league pitcher to win 300 or more games was Robert (Lefty) Grove who retired in 1941 with exactly 300 wins.

Two Boston errors, four walks and a hit batter had Wilson working with men on base most of the time. But as in the eighth, when the Cards had the bases loaded and none out, the 30-year-old Wilson bore down to get out of trouble.

Wilson was not without his anxious moments, however, while holding the Cards to one hit until pinch-hitter Harry (Peanuts) Lowrey connected for a single in the eighth. The first hit off Wilson was collected by leadoff man Solly Hemus, who was retired stealing.

FAN BREEZES

BY BOB MERRIS

Satchel Paige, the slow-moving Negro pitcher for the St. Louis Browns, has been described with many glossy adjectives (all meaning fabulous) because of his talent for making opposing major league hitters look like small boys on a Sunday picnic when they step up to the plate. Last night, O' Satch suddenly became a slugger and rapped out three straight singles to win his own ball game, a 17-inning affair with the Washington Senators.

Now what can he be called. We'll bet that even Brown owner Bill Veeck is at a loss for words to describe the ageless pitcher. Paige won five ball games, all in relief, while losing but one. And those fans who have seen Satch attempt to make contact with the baseball know that he's never been a hitter. He steps away from the plate, takes a half-hearted cut or two and walks back into the shadows of the dugout.

What made Satch decide that he's a hitter. We think that it may be because no one else on the St. Louis club has been able to hit the ball and the old timer was afraid that he'd have to pitch all night if something drastic wasn't done. Wonder if he can play right field?

Ned Garver, the luckless former number-one boy on the Browns' staff, might borrow a leaf from Satch's book. Ned has not been supported by a single run by Brown hitters in his last 36 innings on the mound. Must be frustrating.

Ty Cobb, who recently caused plenty of comment with his "they don't play baseball like they used to" article in a national publication, received a slap in the face when Roger Hornsby left the Georgia Peach off his all-time major league teams named by the Rajah in the current issue of Look.

Hornsby, who blasts Cobb in the magazine for the latter's criticism of modern baseball, rubs salt in the wound by inviting Ty to be his assistant bat boy.

For his all-time major league team the Rajah picks: Outfield—Joe Jackson, Tris Speaker and Babe Ruth. Infield—George Sisler, first; Eddie Collins, second; Honus Wagner, short and Pie Traynor, third; Mickey Cochrane and Bill Dickey, catchers. Pitchers were Grover Alexander, Walter Johnson, Lefty Grove and Carl Hubbell.

Hornsby's all-time American league outfield is the same as the above array. The infield is composed of Sisler and Collins, Luke Appling, short and Buck Weaver, third. Cochrane and Dickey would be the catchers and Johnson and Grove the pitchers.

The National league squad lines up this way: Outfield—Mel Ott, Eddie Roush and Paul Waner. Infield—Bill Terry, first; Frank Frisch, second; Wagner and Traynor. Gaby Hartnett, catcher; Alexander and Hubbell, pitchers.

With Hornsby locked in a journalistic feud with Cobb and grandpappy Satchel Paige holding the Browns up by the seat of their diapers, the St. Louis American league team will not want for publicity the next few weeks.

Bill Reed, Boston Braves' rookie second baseman, hit a double his first time at bat in the National League this season.

The last active major league pitcher to win 300 or more games was Robert (Lefty) Grove who retired in 1941 with exactly 300 wins.

Two Boston errors, four walks and a hit batter had Wilson working with men on base most of the time. But as in the eighth, when the Cards had the bases loaded and none out, the 30-year-old Wilson bore down to get out of trouble.

Wilson was not without his anxious moments, however, while holding the Cards to one hit until pinch-hitter Harry (Peanuts) Lowrey connected for a single in the eighth. The first hit off Wilson was collected by leadoff man Solly Hemus, who was retired stealing.

Jacksonville Nine Engages Mt. Sterling, Virginia In 2 Games

A five-team American Legion baseball league centered in the Jacksonville area will get underway Sunday afternoon, Glenn Williams, 20th district athletic officer, announced last night.

Legion nines in the loop are Jacksonville, Aremville, Beardsdown and Mt. Sterling.

Aremville is at Beardsdown this Sunday afternoon while Mt. Sterling and Virginia will play a double header against Jacksonville at the northside diamond.

Several playoffs and tournaments will be conducted in this area this season to decide a state American Legion champion and entrant in the national finals.

The 20th district playoff will be held the second week in July at a site to be determined, Williams said. Down state finals will be conducted at Wood River July 29-31. The state finals are booked at Kankakee on August 2-3-4.

Quincy will be host to regional seven playoff. State champs from Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Michigan will gather at Gem City to participate in this big tournament.

American Legion baseball is soundly endorsed by both major leagues, who donate $50,000 annually to keep the young ball players in action.

Over 16,318 American Legion teams will play ball this year. All Legion players are insured against injury to the extent of $1,000, Williams announced.

The first game of the double header here Sunday afternoon will get underway at 1:30. Williams asks that all Jacksonville players meet at the northside diamond at 12:30.

Braves Nick Cardinals In 3-2 Scrap

St. Louis, June 3 —(P)—Right-hander Jim Wilson hurled the Boston Braves to a 3-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals tonight after watching his first pitch smacked for a single and then pitching hitless ball until the eighth inning when he gave up the only other hit he allowed and both Card runs.

The margin of Wilson's third victory of the year was supplied by George Crowe who opened the eighth with a home run to the roof of the right field pavilion, his third of the year.

Dodgers Fend Off Pittsburgh Rally For 6-4 Victory

Pittsburgh, June 3 —(P)—The first-place Brooklyn Dodgers staved off a ninth-inning rally tonight to beat the last-place Pittsburgh Pirates 6-4 and maintain their one-game lead over the New York Giants. Jackie Robinson, Carl Furillo and Gil Hodges homered for the Dodgers with George Strickland and Ed Fitzgerald hitting circuit clouts for the Pirates. Ralph Branca, relieved in the ninth when the Reds scored three runs, received credit for his third win against two losses.

Duke Snider smashed two triples to help the Brooklyn cause and send Big pitcher Red Munger to the showers in the seventh after the Dodgers had built up a 5-1 lead.

Satchel Pitches, Bats Browns To Win In 17 Frames

Washington, June 3 —(P)—Satchel Paige's third straight single with two out in the 17th inning scored Joe Demasari from second base with the run that left the St. Louis Browns with a 3-2 victory over Washington tonight. It was Paige's fifth win in relief.

Pitching brilliantly in tight situations, Paige twice survived Washington rallies when the Senators loaded the bases with one out in the 13th and 14th innings.

Jim Rivera launched the Browns' winning rally when he opened the 17th with a double off Tom Ferrick, who replaced Bob Porterfield in the 15th inning.

Rivera moved to third when Leo Thomas grounded out but was trapped when Demasari grounded to Ferrick. Demasari went to second base on the rundown, however, and scored on Paige's single to center.

Both teams made 11 hits in the longest game in the major leagues this season.

Giants Lambast Cubs 17-4, End Losing Streak

Chicago, June 3 —(P)—The New York Giants twice batted clear around in successive six-run innings and clubbed 17 hits today to crush the Chicago Cubs 17-4 and end a three-game losing streak.

The Giants, who had lost five of their previous six games, included a two-run homer by Wes Westrum, three triples and three doubles in their massacre of four Cub tossers. The rampant New Yorkers also enjoyed six walks and had three hit batsmen.

The slugging made it easy for right-hander Jim Hearn to achieve his fifth victory against one loss by scattering nine Cub hits. Hearn also had presided at the Giants' previous high score of the season, a 13-5 win over the Pittsburgh Pirates May 1.

Giants leadoff batter Dave Williams scored four times. He walked three times, doubled and singled.

Athletics Take 3-1 Decision From Tigers

Philadelphia, June 3 —(P)—Homers by Hank Majeski and Al Clark were the payoff blows to night as the Philadelphia Athletics took a 3 to 1 decision over the Detroit Tigers. The victory stretched the A's win streak to four.

Virgil Trucks, who has completed only one of nine starting jobs, was the victim of Philadelphia's power. He gave way to veteran Freddy Hutchinson after seven innings of work.

Alias Basil Willing
By Helen McCloy

THROUGH the railing they saw fair hair and now Basil was looking at the calmly purposeful face of Dr. Zimmer.

“BUT Zimmer’s house is on West Eleventh,” whispered Lloyd. “We didn’t cross over from West Tenth.”

Again Basil motioned silence. It was when he searched his street map for a street initial “W. S.” that he had discovered the truth. While the first block of Eleventh Street west of Fifth Avenue was backed by West Tenth Street, other blocks were backed by thoroughfares like Greenwich Avenue, Hudson Street, or Warwick Street. Zimmer’s block wasn’t a square at all, but a triangle, and the rear windows of Zimmer’s house on West Eleventh looked toward the rear windows of houses on Warwick Street—not West Tenth, as Basil had assumed before it became important.

Like most New Yorkers who pass their lives uptown, he thought of all east-west streets as numbered in regular sequence and all thoroughfares as running north and south. But in this paradoxical part of town where the west coast of Manhattan Island swerves sharply to the east, the river to the west was called the North River, some thoroughfares ran northwest to southeast and city streets were capriciously patched and interrupted by the lanes and cul-de-sacs of a fossil village called Greenwich.

Zimmer spoke loudly enough to be heard by those watching outside the open basement window.

“Otto!”

Otto’s voice answered in German. “Coming, Herr Doktor!” And Otto himself stepped into the brilliantly lighted picture framed by the window. He, too, wore a smock and rubber gloves.

Zimmer went on in German. “I’m going upstairs to dress. Better start cleaning up. And mind you, don’t light a cigarette! There’s a very unstable compound in that open flask.”

Zimmer stepped out of sight and a door slammed. Otto moved out of the window frame. Basil and Lloyd heard splashing, as if he were washing vessels at a sink; then footsteps, as if he were putting things away on shelves. At last he appeared in the window again. He paused before one of the cages and spoke in the same imperious tone that Zimmer had used to him: “Quiet, brute!” He poked something through the bars.

There was a shrill squeaking, then silence. He walked away and the lights went out.

“What now?” whispered Lloyd. “Wait. That’s what we’re here for. And don’t even whisper.”

Three oblongs of light shone suddenly on the turf beyond the shrubbery. Otto was dressed and lighting lamps in the drawing room. He spoke in English now. “If you will wait a moment, Madam.”

She crossed the lighted window—Rosamund Yorke—radiantly fair in diaphanous white with a crimson cloak that she tossed aside. “Take it upstairs for me, Otto, will you?”

Rosamund Yorke moved around the room. Through another window they saw her sit down and light a cigarette.

Then Dr. Zimmer, fully dressed to the usual gardenia, came hurrying into the room. He greeted Rosamund warmly, and then exclaimed: “Rosa, is this wise?”

“Why not?” her laugh rippled to the men who were listening outside the window.

Dr. Zimmer took both of Rosamund’s hands and held them. “But won’t there be—”

GAMBLING BY CLASS

Monaco, Indo-China.—P.—Here in French-held Monaco, on the border with Red China, people gamble “by class.”

On the first floor, the “small fry” gamblers make their wagers. On the second floor, there’s bigger bettors, and on the third floor, the biggest ones. They sit on benches and look down upon the dice tables below.

The money they wager and whatever they collect moves up and down by small buckets tied to a rope.

BOY GETS CITATION

New York.—P.—A 9-year-old boy received a citation recently for his alertness in summoning aid in a Boston hotel fire. Police Commissioner George P. Monaghan made the presentation for the Police Athletic League.

The youngster, Alfred Catal, smelled smoke and aroused his mother. Then he traced the smoke to another room and pounded on the door to arouse the occupant. When this failed he ran to get help.

ATOM SUB INTERESTS

Long Beach, Calif.—P.—An old “big sea” man, who served in the first U. S. submarine, is angling for a ride as passenger when the first atom-powered sub is tested.

He is Edward J. Krec, 64, who says he was a crewman aboard the USS Holland in 1907. In those days, says Krec, there was no escape hatch, periscope or compartmented hull—only a torpedo and a dynamite gun.

Krec says an old shipmate, Capt. H. G. Rickover, USN, is in charge of constructing the atom submarine.

Kindergartens To Commence Monday, Continue 10 Weeks

The public school kindergartens will open at 9 a.m. on Monday for a ten-week session.

Kindergartens are operated during the summer instead of during the school year because the school buildings are too crowded in the winter to provide the additional space needed.

Children are eligible to start kindergarten next week and school in the fall if they are six years of age by Dec. 1, 1952.

Children who plan to attend kindergarten and who have not been previously enrolled, should be registered with the principal of the school this week. Parents will receive a booklet which will explain the operation of kindergarten.

Information on the objectives of the school is included, the hours of the school day, the curriculum, the state health and physical education requirements, the school supplies needed, reports to parents, and similar data.

Threat Of Irrigation

Pat McLean warned his audience, however, that "a great danger lies today, the danger of Godlessness and irreligion," and he told the graduates that their primary duty as Catholics and American citizens "is to lead the fight to banish irreligion from this country. It must be done or this nation, like so many in history which abandoned religion and moral principles, will perish."

Pat McLean was ordained a priest at Catholic University, Washington, D.C., in 1925. He was professor of philosophy and English literature at the Oblate House of Studies, Newburgh, N.Y. for five years, until 1930, when he became rector of St. Patrick's College, Ottawa, Canada. Since 1935 he has been a missionary for his faith in Canada and the United States.

He also served in the armed forces of both Canada and the United States in two world wars, first in the U.S.A.A.P. and then as chaplain in the Royal Canadian Army.

Catholic Action Pledge

The commencement services, religious in tone, began with the professional, the graduates taking their seats at the front of the church to the chords of Praeludium Festum, played by Mrs. Alta Eisch at the organ. The Our Saviour Parish choir sang "Cor Jesu," by Schultes, and the entire graduating class followed by giving the Catholic Action Pledge.

Following the conferring of diplomas and the commencement address came the benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. Sacred music concluded the solemn occasion.

The following morning the seniors heard high Mass in the church. This was followed by a communion breakfast at the Knights of Columbus hall. The breakfast was sponsored by the members of the junior class and their parents.

The Graduates
